Bad News--From Jackson, Miss.

MOBILE, May 21.

A special dispatch to the Register & Advertiser, furnishes the following from Vicksburg, dated Tuesday night, May 19:

In the Saturday fight we lost about 30 pieces of cannon, spiked, and abandoned.

On Sunday the Federals advanced to take Big Black Bridge and were repulsed, but they crossed higher up and took us in the rear.

The bridge was burned and the works abandoned. Our loss heavy.

Vicksburg is closely besieged and the enemy is closing in on every side.

Gen. Loring has assumed command at Jackson.

Vallandigham's Arrest.

RICHMOND, May 22.—Gov. Seymour, in a letter to the Vallandigham sympathizing meeting at Albany, says that the arrest of Vallandigham has brought dishonor upon the country, if the proceedings are approved by the Government and sanctioned by the people; it is not merely the steps to revolution, but it is revolution. We pause to see what kind of Government we have for which we are asked to pour out our blood and treasures. The actions of the administration will determine in the minds of more than half the people of the loyal States whether this war is waged to put down the rebellion South, or destroy free institutions North, we look for its decision with solemn solicitude.

The first resolution adopted by the meeting of the people of New York denounced the arrest and sentence of Vallandigham as a startling outrage upon the hitherto sacred rights of American citizenship.

One speaker, on refering to Seymour's letter says the people would stand by Seymour with guns and bayonets in their hands, at all hazards. Loud cheers were then given for Seymour.

ALL QUIET BELOW.—We saw an intelligent officer in this city on yesterday who was right from the picket lines below Kinston, and he represents all as quiet in that direction. The enemy have made no demonstration above Newbern for some time past, not even a gun having been fired along their picket lines for the last week or ten days. The fact is, a large number of Foster's men are mustered out in May and he will be in no condition for demonstrations this way until reinforced, and just now they have not the men to spare to send him.

We learn that some persons below entertain the opinion that Foster is about to evacuate Newbern and fall back to Morehead City, making Shepardsville, ten miles above Morehead, his line of defense. We shall believe that Newbern is to be evacuated when we see it—not before.

[Raleigh Progress

HEAVY YANKEE FORCE AT PLYMOUTH.—A prominent gentleman who arrived here yesterday, from Bertie, assures us that there are eight or nine thousand Yankees at Plymouth. He insists that positive information has been received directly from there and that there can be no mistake as to the presence of the force named, at that point. We had heard a week or more ago that there was a considerable force at Plymouth but must confess that we did not attach much importance to it, but it comes to us now in such shape that we are forced to believe there is something in it. The rascals swarm like the locusts of Egypt. But what can such a force at Plymouth mean? Where is it to operate and how are we to meet and repel it? We suppose there is a ready answer at Richmond for all these questions, at least we hope so.—Raleigh Progress.

ANECDOTE OF PRESIDENT DAVIS.—The following is said to have occurred when President Davis was Secretary of War at Washington, between him and a Colonel in the regular army?

The officer in question was a Colonel, whose regiment is stationed near Newport, R. I. "Well, Goneral," says the Colonel to the Secretary, "I have received your order, commanding me to leave the hotel at Newport, and take up my quarters with the regiment at the barracks." "I am glad to hear it," replied Gen. Davis; "I hope the order will subject you to no inconvenience." "No inconvenience, indeed!" replied the Colonel, quite indignantly; "why, sir, the place is a living tomb of misery and unhealthiness. I couldn't endure the place a month. This has been known to my superiors in command, including the late Secretary of War; and I have been permitted to remain at Newport, where I am comfortably situated. I have not been necessarily negligent of my duty, as your order seems to imply. I am a soldier, sir, and know my duty." "Ah, indeed," calmly rejoined the Secretary; "you have been living in ease and splendor, while the poor soldiers have been poked up in a 'living tomb of misery and unhealthiness;' you couldn't endure the place a month; you are a soldier and know your duty. Now, sir, I, too, am a soldier, and I know it to be the first duty of an officer to look after the welfare and comfort of those under his command. I have held office in the army and always considered it my duty to partake of the hardships as well as the glories of my companions in arms. If, therefore, the barracks near Newport are fit for your regiment to live in, I presume they are fit for you. If they be as you represent them, you have certainly been negligent in not reporting the fact to this Department, so that the soldiers could have been removed from that "living tomb of misery and unhealthiness.' And, until you make such a report, I shall make no change in the order of which you complain."

What Troops the Yankees have sent into the Field.

The United States National Almanac, for 1863, published in Philadelphia, furnishes some interesting statistics concerning the strength of the enemy. The following table shows the number of troops furnished to the Yankee army from the commencement of the war up to the 1st of January, 1863:

New York—Number sent to the field to January 1863.	223,836
Pennsylvania,	200,000
Ohio (besides over 10,000 enlisted in the service of other States,)	174,738
Illinois—To December 31, 1862,	135,000
Indiana—To January 1, 1863,	102,698
Massachusetts—To December 1st, 1862 (about one to every 13 23 of her population)	90,000
Iowa—to December 1, 1862, (more than)	50,000
Michigan—December 1, 1862,	48,000
Wisconsin—December, 1862, (aside from the three months' regiments)	42,000
Maine,	30,000
Connecticut—To Nov. 10, 1862,	28,551
New Jersey,	20,000
Vermont, (nearly one in every 15 of her entire population,)	19,000
New Hampshire, up to Nov. 1, 1862,	18,261
Rhode Island (one in 5.23-100 of her white male population,	15,736
Kansas,	14,000
Minnesota,	11,887
California, (five full regiments of infantry and two of cavalry,) say	7,000
Oregon, (no report)
Maryland, (estimated)	10,000
Delaware, (estimated)
Kentucky, Nov. 1, 1862, about	55,000
Missouri,	38,000
Virginia, Nov. 1, 1862, about	20,000
Total	1,356,301

This large number, it will be observed, is "besides the three months' regiments" in Wisconsin. The following shows the naval force with which the Yankees have assailed us, and gives the strength of the United States Navy:

Steamers.
Screw steamers,	118
Side wheel steamers, gunboats, transports, &c.,	151
Iron-clad steamers.	54
Total	323
Sailing Vessels.
Ships-of-the-line and frigates,	12
Sloops-of-war and brigs,	20
Ships, brigs, barks and schooners,	72
Total	104
Total steamers and sailing vessels,	427

The fleet in commission exceeds that of England by fifty vessels. Over forty thousand men are serving on these vessels.

RETALIATION.—The Dispatch says that two of the Yankee officers now in the Libby prison are shortly to be hung, in retaliation for the murder, by the order of Burnside, of a Captain and Lieutenant, recently executed under his infamous "death order." The two victims will be selected by lot from among the Captains and Lieutenants now in the prison. If the evidence of the murder of two of our officers by Burnside is unmistakable, we hope the Government will not back down from its determination to retaliate.

N. C. Troops in the Late Battles.

From the Raleigh Standard.]

From the firing of the first gun at Great Bethel up to the present moment, North Carolina troops have done their full duty on every field. Their courage was conspicuous in the late battles of Fredericksburg. An officer in the 2d regiment, writing to a friend in Wilmington, giving an account of the operations of Ransom's brigade, says:

"Yesterday the brigade covered itself with glory. We drove the enemy from their strong position, but with the loss of many gallant fellows.

* * Our brigade was in the third line, and so was not called on until the others had advanced, the aim was to dislodge the enemy from a very strong breastwork made of felled trees. Pryor's brigade advanced but was driven back; the old Stonewall brigade moved up with the like result. Now came our turn, and Ramseur's brigade was ordered forward. They advanced at double quick, regardless of the storm of grape and minnie balls which fell around them. Onward went the gallant fellows until they reached the breastworks, and the enemy were driven pell-mell out of them. Just then the enemy appeared on our flank; our ammunition was exhausted, and we were ordered to fall back. This was done in good order but not for far enough to allow the enemy to re-occupy their position. The ground was covered with the dead and wounded. Gen. Ramseur wept like a child on beholding the shattered remnants of the noble brigade, whose ranks were full fifteen minutes before. Our regiment went in with nearly four hundred men, and now one hundred cannot be mustered, and every one of the absent is either dead or wounded. * * When our brigade came out of the fight, Stuart ordered cheers for it. Gens. Rodes and Ramseur each made speeches. Stuart told Ramseur he ought to be a Major-General. "No Sir," said he, "I want to be Brigadier, and remain with my noble brigade."

And of Gen. Hoke's brigade in the same battle it is said, that—

"A breastwork had to be carried. The men moved steadily forward. Hoke led them upon the enemy's works, gave the enemy but one round of musketry, and then, resorting to the bayonet, he pushed upon the foe with loud cheers, driving them from the work, back upon the supporting forces in the rear, who, broken and confused with the pressure of their own men, fell back in turn upon still farther lines of the support, causing a general rout."

Many of our regiments were not merely decimated, but almost literally destroyed.

But the Richmond Enquirer says that D. H. Hill's division, "composed principally of Virginians, Georgians, and Alabamian's, bore the brunt of Sunday's fight." North Carolina has nine regiments in that division. Of course the Enquirer did not know this, or if it did, it did not think proper to mention it.

Illegal Seizure of British Ships.

The London Index, after publishing the official correspondence between the British and United States Governments, on the subject of the seizure of the Peterhoff and the "pass" given by Mr. Adams to an English ship to go to Matamoras, a neutral port, thus comments on the documents:

No one can read without feeling surprised that Lord Russell should have thought it necessary to submit the case of the Peterhoff to the law officers of the crown, seeing that the law is so certain and defined; and it is not less surprising that her Majesty's Government should appear to sanction the doctrine that the mere allegation on the part of the Federal Government of a legal pretext, will justify a palpably illegal transaction. Our merchants are determined not to submit to a construction of the law which will involve the stoppage of their trade with neutral ports now, and be a precedent for interference with their commerce in the future

It is the opinion of the Index that, as the Peterhoff was unlawfully seized on a voyage from one neutral port to another, she will be given up; but the question to be tried is, whether the British Government will permit Federal cruisers systematically to violate the laws, or whether they will, by force, prevent these seizures.

Even Earl Russell is beginning to lose his diplomatic temper at these outrages upon neutral commerce, subservient as he avows himself to have been to the interests of the North. His last letter in the correspondence is worth careful reading:

EARL RUSSELL TO MR. ADAMS.

FOREIGN OFFICE, May 17, 1862.

SIR: I do not wish to prolong this correspondence, and shall only make one remark in answer to your last letter.

If the British Government, by virtue of the prerogative of the crown, or by authority of Parliament, had prohibited, and could have prevented, the conveyance in British merchant ships of guns and ammunition to the Confederate States, and had allowed the transport of such contraband of war to New York and to other Federal ports, her Majesty's Government would have departed from the neutral position they have assumed and maintained. If, on the other hand, her Majesty's Government had prohibited, and could have prevented, the transport of arms and ammunition to both the contending parties, they would have deprived the United States of a great part of the means by which they have carried on the war. The arms and ammunition received from Great Britain, as well as from other neutral countries, have enabled the United States to fit out formidable armies now engaged in carrying on the war against the Southern States; while, by means of the blockade established by the Federal Government, the Southern States have been deprived of similar advantages. The impartial observance of neutral obligations by her Majesty's Government has thus been exceedingly advantageous to the cause of the more powerful of the two contending parties.

I am, &c.,

RUSSELL.

To Correspondents.

We have on file several letters from our friends in the army, which will appear at an early date.

We have been forced to let them lie over in order to give place to the official reports of our killed wounded and missing during the late battles on the Rappahannock.

From the Blackwater.

Through information obtained yesterday morning from a gentleman just arrived from that neighborhood, we conclude that warm work will soon be encountered very soon. The Yankees are advancing and entrenching.

Tax on Commission Merchants.

The Mayor of Augusta has received the following communication from the Secretary of War in response to an inquiry in reference to the tax on Commission Merchants under the new tax law:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
Richmond, May 13, 1863.

Hon. Robert H May, Mayor of City of Augusta, Georgia.

SIR: In reply to your letter of the 8th inst., I have the honor to state, that commission merchants, under the Act of 24th April, 1863, are subject to a specific tax of two hundred dollars, and a tax of two and a half per centum on all sales made. By sec. 6 of the act, the liability to pay the tax attaches from and includes the 24th day of April, 1863, the date of approval of the Act. The specific tax is for the year ending 31st day of December, 1863, and is due and payable at the time of registration. Registration is required to be made within sixty days after the passage of the Act, or at the time of commencement of business, and on the 1st day of January in each year thereafter. Return of sales is to be made to the assessor on the 1st day of July next, and at the end of every three months thereafter, and the tax on such sales is due and payable to the collector at the date of return. Very respectfully,

(Signed,) C. G. MEMMINGER,
Secretary of Treasury.

Bold Expressions in the North.

Notwithstanding the terrorism which prevails throughout the North, it seems the spirit of revolution and resistance to the tyrant still exists and occasionally carries itself in such bold outspoken terms as the following, from the Dubuque (Iowa) Gazette:

"Missouri enjoys the reputation of bringing to the surface, in the shape of General Loan, a counterpart of the brute McNeil. A late order issued by him authorizes and justifies the murder of any parties or persons found in central Missouri and suspected of being guerrillas or 'bushwhackers,' Confederate recruiting officers or emissaries, by the first commissioned officer into whose hands they may fall.

"The abolitionist press demand that we shall support the administration and defend the army and its Generals. Sooner than support it in such a policy, or defend so atrocious an act—sooner than withhold our opinion that Gen. Loan, by this inhumane order, merits no more mercy at the hands of the people of Missouri, or has any more claim upon humanity, but the privilege of being shot down in his tracks like a dog, we would tenant the vilest dungeon in the land, until such time as the American people begin to emerge from barbarism into a civilization which would compare favorably with that of Turkey. He is a murderer, and those who sustain him his accessories.

Rev. R. J. Graves, of North Carolina, has not yet been arraigned for trial in the C. S. District Court in this city. He entered into a recognizance on the 4th of February last before M. E. Manly, Judge of the Superior Court of North Carolina, and E. B. Borden, Confederate Commissioner in that State, which recognizance has been forfeited, and the Court has taken time to consider as to what further proceedings it will order against him.

The New York Herald says nothing but stupidity can prevent Jeff Davis from being a prisoner in three months, and the rebellion subdued.
